Daily Activity Reporting (DAR)

DAR Non-Punch Penalty Structure

Failure to punch DAR entries is monitored cumulatively within each calendar month. A progressive penalty system applies based on the number of violations:

- Up to two non-punched DAR entries in a month will not result in any penalty. These are treated as grace instances to allow for genuine lapses without disciplinary action.
- From the third instance onwards, penalties are applied on every alternate missed DAR day. Specifically, a penalty is applied on the 3rd, 5th, 7th, and every subsequent odd-numbered violation in the month. This means that not every missed day results in a deduction, but the penalties increase progressively.
- On each penalty day, a half-day Casual Leave (CL) will be automatically deducted. If the associate does not have a sufficient CL balance, the system will apply a half-day Leave without Pay (LWP) instead.
- All such penalty leaves, whether CL or LWP, are treated in the same manner as standard leaves. This includes applicability of all company leave rules, such as impacts on salary, increment delays, and any other HR or payroll-related consequences.

Responsibility

Associates are fully responsible for their daily DAR compliance. Persistent non-compliance, even if within the bounds of the penalty structure, may be viewed as a behavioral concern and can be escalated to management or HR. Repeat violations over multiple months may affect appraisals, promotions, or continued project assignments.

Leave Encashment:

- Confirmed employee having min 5 Years of Tenure in the Company will be eligible for encashment of EL.
